We have been working to better understand our customers so that we can deliver a superior seamless experience, while supporting them through uncertain times.

We aim to be the trusted financial partner in the lives of all of our customers. In times of rising costs and interest rates, CBA remains well positioned to continue reimagining banking and to help Australia's economy become more digital, resilient and sustainable. Our purpose is more relevant than ever, building a brighter future for all – we are ready to support.

Supporting our customers in all the ways we can

Our strategy reflects a bolder ambition and our commitment to use the strength of CBA to support our customers, invest in our communities and provide strength and stability for the broader economy.

We recognise that many Australians are feeling under pressure in the current environment. As the nation’s largest bank, we will continue to help and support our customers. This includes helping them save on everyday expenses, navigate a changing economic environment and plan for the future.

For our retail and home loan customers, we introduced flexible features to make it easier to manage repayments and save on interest. We also increased the rates on a number of our savings products and provided budgeting and spending tools in the CommBank app. For our business banking customers, we helped maximise cash flow with a new short notice deposit account and made it easier for them to obtain funding through digital investment and process improvements. We remain ready to help our customers with financial assistance for those who need it.

We have also prioritised combatting the rise in scams and fraud, helping customers stay safe through early detection and prevention. We announced two new initiatives: NameCheck, designed to help customers avoid mistaken payments; and CallerCheck, which allows customers to verify a caller and identify themselves safely through the CommBank app. Since launch, NameCheck has helped more than 11,000 customers avoid potential mistaken payments through flagging unrecognised account details. We recognise that the system is only as safe as its weakest link, so we are planning to make the NameCheck technology available to government organisations and other trusted partners, encouraging a broader national approach to fight scams and fraud.

Executing our strategy

We continue to execute our strategy of building tomorrow’s bank today for our customers. Our strategy reflects a bolder ambition and our commitment to use the strength of CBA to support our customers, invest in our communities and provide strength and stability for the broader economy.

With 35% of Australian consumers and 25% of Australian businesses naming us their main financial institution, deep customer relationships are a key differentiator. Our considered multi-decade investment in technology, data and analytics capabilities has resulted in high customer engagement – enabling us to better understand their needs and provide the best banking experience.

The Bank’s Customer Engagement Engine, powered by artificial intelligence (AI), is one of the key tools we are using to deliver more personalised and relevant experiences to our customers digitally, and empower our customer-facing teams to do the same. With 7.8 million customers using our CommBank app, AI-enabled features like Bill Sense and Benefits finder are playing an important role in giving customers greater visibility and control of their money to help tackle cost of living challenges. We recently launched a new version of the CommBank app, app 5.0, which provides dynamic navigation, more personalisation and further integration with CommSec. It has also been built to enable us to offer customers more enhancements at a faster pace in the future.

CBA’s strategic investment in business banking, and focus on strengthening customer relationships, has resulted in growing our customer base to over one million customers. We continue to work towards being a leading business bank, and are focused on delivering superior customer experiences for both our retail and business customers.

Beyond the APRA

Prudential Inquiry

Remedial Action Plan

We made significant progress under CBA’s Australian Prudential Regulation Authority (APRA) Prudential Inquiry Remedial Action Plan, focused on improving our governance, culture and accountability. Importantly, we reset our cultural foundations including the Bank’s purpose and values.

The changes represent an evolution in the way we want to deliver outcomes for our customers, communities, our people and shareholders.

In recognition of this progress, the remaining operational risk capital overlay of $600 million imposed on the Bank was released by APRA in September 2022. We are focused on sustaining this progress and continuously improving and strengthening the changes made to live our purpose and values, in particular instilling a strong culture that encourages the right mindsets and behaviours.

This approach continues to resonate with our people, and overall engagement remains high at 79%, with continuing high levels of pride across the organisation.

We welcome legislative and policy initiatives that help guide industry and communities to meet Australia’s ambitious climate targets and encourage investment to support Australia’s transition to a net zero economy. We are committed to working closely with communities, businesses, industry leaders and governments to encourage a holistic approach to addressing the challenges associated with the transition to a more sustainable future.

Read our 2023 Climate Report.

Ensuring good governance

Upholding a high standard of governance is essential in delivering on both our strategic and sustainability goals. Our approach sets the foundation for the way we conduct business and deliver outcomes.

The Board and management are focused on testing CBA’s strategic settings to ensure they remain appropriate in our current context. We look for ways to improve customer experiences and advocacy, by investing in key areas such as cyber security and scams and fraud.

Outlook

The Australian economy has been resilient with the tailwinds of a recovery in population growth, relatively high commodity prices and low unemployment. However there are signs of downside risks building as rising interest rates have a lagged impact on mortgage customers and other cost of living pressures become a financial strain for more Australians.

We will continue to invest in our business and execute on our strategy to deliver our purpose of building a brighter future for all.

On behalf of all the Board and Executive Leadership Team, we would like to thank all our people for their hard work and commitment – and to you, our shareholders, for your ongoing support.

Leadership in Australia’s recovery and transition

Supporting our customers and the nation to help build a brighter, more sustainable future, together.

Millions of Australians trust CBA with their savings, and we aim to be their trusted financial partner. At a time when many are feeling the strain of higher interest rates and the rising cost of living, we remain committed to supporting our customers financially impacted by the current environment.

We proactively contacted customers whose fixed-rate home loans were maturing to discuss their needs and help them understand their options. Through targeted communications we were able to provide personalised support, flexibility and financial assistance. We also increased interest rates across a number of our savings products and helped customers better manage their finances through tips and guidance, as well as budgeting and spending tools in the CommBank app. Benefits finder is one of a number of digital tools to help customers offset the rising cost of living. Since inception, it has connected customers to over $1 billion in benefits, rebates and concessions. In New Zealand, ASB scaled-up their use of behavioural nudges to help customers make positive changes and feel more in control of their finances. Over 220,000 ASB customers have taken positive actions to improve their financial wellbeing as a result of these nudges.

CBA’s continued balance sheet strength and conservative approach to funding means we are well placed to support our customers as financial conditions tighten, while still delivering sustainable returns to shareholders.

Extending our retail and business banking leadership

Strong customer relationships form the foundation of our retail bank. With 35% of all Australians naming CBA as their main financial institution, our strategy is centred on deepening and strengthening customer relationships through superior experiences and better personalisation. We have also applied this focus in our business bank, strengthening business banking relationships and growing our business customer base to over one million customers.

The Bank’s strategic investments in business banking over the past three years have resulted in strong customer engagement, deepening relationships and earnings growth. One in four businesses now consider CBA to be their main financial institution. Our business banking approach is relationship-led with business transaction accounts and payments at the centre of that relationship. From these relationships, we gain unique customer insights and can build deeper customer relationships through our product and service offerings.

With transaction banking at the core of the business banking relationship, continually evolving our payments and merchant acquirers offerings remains a focus. This year we launched a range of new smart terminals – including the Smart Mini (portable tap’n’go solution) and Smart Integrated (point-of-sale integrated solution) – with over 70,000 devices currently in market. These new devices allow us to build bespoke industry solutions, with a particular focus on health care and hospitality. We also released an end-to-end ecommerce proposition, PowerBoard, to provide merchants with access to multiple payment methods through a simple solution that will help them start, run and grow their business online.

We recognise cash flow is key for our business customers, especially in the current economic environment. The Capital Growth Account, our new short notice deposit account, will help business customers maximise their cash flow by allowing them to earn interest at the same time as being able to withdraw funds, with just 48 hours or seven days’ notice.

For both our retail and business customers, we are focused on fixing service issues that lead to poor customer experiences and reimagining our product and service offerings.

Helping build Australia’s future economy

We remain committed to helping Australia transition to a more digital, resilient and sustainable economy. We do this by lending to support the transformation of industries, as well as to support key sectors such as agriculture, manufacturing, transport, healthcare, retail and wholesale trade. We also provide a range of innovative products, services and solutions that reward our customers for making more environmentally sustainable choices.

We are focused on supporting customers as they transition their business models to deliver on their decarbonisation goals and net zero by 2050 commitments. Nature-based emissions reduction solutions are expected to play an important role in Australia’s transition to a net zero economy by 2050. Our carbon markets team enables financing and risk management solutions across global carbon markets that support our customers to achieve their climate goals.

Combating cybercrime, scams and fraud in the Australian community

There is always more to do to protect and educate our customers, given the rising volume and fast changing nature of scams and fraud. We are committed to playing our part to address this national priority alongside leading businesses, government, and the broader community. Assisting with nature-based solutions

More agribusinesses are exploring opportunities to advance their environmental goals while improving farm assets, productivity and profitability. This year, we supported future carbon credits that will be generated by a carbon credit project in Western Australia. The transaction supports the purchase of pastoral leases for cattle stations, to help the properties remain productive while also seeking to deliver better carbon and environmental outcomes.

Reimagining banking

Reimagining what it means to be a bank, and building trusted relationships to create more value for our customers.

A key differentiator and core strength of CBA is our deep customer relationships. We continually look to strengthen these relationships, by reimagining banking to deliver superior and more personalised customer experiences.

Our ambition is to deliver a superior digital experience, beyond just digital banking – equal to or better than any other. The Bank’s sustained investment in technology underpins our digital leadership and supports our ambition. We continue to grow digital engagement with 8.7 million digitally active customers – over a million more than two years ago – and our digital transactions account for 75% of total transactions by value. This strong engagement provides unique insights that help us better understand our customers and how we can support them.

We look to build deeper, more trusted customer relationships, better understand customer needs and risk, and deliver a superior experience by advancing and uplifting our existing infrastructure and people.

Reimagined products and services

We aim to give customers more value from their banking relationship with us. Through personalisation and distinct propositions, we look to keep meeting the needs of our retail and business customers as they evolve over time.

CommBank app 5.0

The CommBank app is central to our customer approach. With 7.8 million users, it is the #1 banking app in Australia – and for many customers, continues to be their preferred channel. Harnessing bank data and insights on what customers want from a digital banking experience, app 5.0 provides dynamic navigation, more personalisation and further integration with CommSec. It has also been built to enable us to deliver more enhancements to customers at a faster pace in the future.

Key features include:

Automatic login
Faster experience by securely logging in as soon as the app opens.

Quick links
Personalised navigation tiles based on customer’s in-app behaviour (e.g. frequently visited).

App library and enhanced search
Simplified catalogue of app features, products and services, as well as improved app-wide search functionality.

Business profile switching
Switch option allows business customers to easily toggle between business and personal accounts.

New investing functionality
Enables users to browse and invest in Australian shares and Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs).

Expanded simple balances
Ability to see current balance of up to three accounts on homepage.

Enabling customers to achieve their financial goals

We know our customers are looking for ways to save money and manage their finances. CBA’s Behavioural Science Centre of Excellence specialises in analysing data, working with research partners and developing new tools and services to help customers achieve their financial goals.

Money Plan, Spend Tracker, Bill Sense and Goal Tracker in the CommBank app can help customers stay on top of their financial decisions, understand where their money is being spent, see upcoming bills and set and reach their savings goals. Data from our app shows that 3.2 million customers use one or more of our money management services to help customers achieve their financial goals.

We are also helping customers put money back in their pockets with shopping offers and cashback, and through the use of tools like Fuel finder and Benefits finder. Building on our AI and machine learning capabilities, we are improving customer engagement and value by increasing the level of personalisation.

Creating more value by differentiating our customer proposition

In response to customers’ shifting needs and expectations, we continue to evolve and improve our offerings – through personal banking, business banking and investing. We recognise the importance of providing a consistent experience for customers no matter which part of the Bank they are dealing with. Our new profile switch option in the app allows small business customers to easily toggle between their business and personal accounts. With the majority of our small business customers also being personal customers of CBA, profile switching will give them a much clearer view of their business banking products, while also enabling us to provide them with a range of in-app insights specific to their business.

Similarly, the integration of CommBiz into the app provides investors with a seamless investment experience, giving customers the ability to manage their investments alongside their banking.

We also continue to offer customers more value through strategic relationships. Our telecommunications referral relationship with fast-growing broadband provider More, gives customers access to broadband offers.

Helping customers stay safe online

We are continuing our investment in technology to protect our customers, as well as providing the tools and resources to empower Australians to stay safe online.

New security features

This year we launched a new app feature, CallerCheck, which allows customers to verify whether a caller claiming to be from CBA is legitimate. By triggering a security message, customers can confirm who is calling them and quickly identify themselves before sharing sensitive information.

We also introduced NameCheck in NetBank, the CommBank app and progressively to CommBiz payments. The feature uses AI to search account details and check if the customer is paying the intended recipient, helping reduce false billing scams and mistaken payments. Since launch, NameCheck has prevented over $1.1 million in mistaken payments. The NameCheck capability will be offered to government organisations and other trusted partners to support a broader national approach to combat scams and fraud.

Joining forces to better protect customers

In partnership with Telstra, we have been piloting Scam Indicator to help protect joint CBA and Telstra customers from phone scams. Using a machine-learning scams detection model, the tool is designed to detect certain high-risk scam situations in real time, enabling us to try to contact the customer or put in additional checks. Scam Indicator is expected to be made available to customers later this year.

Global best digital experiences and technology

We are using data, AI, technology and world-class engineering to enable better personalisation and provide a differentiated customer proposition.

Building world-class engineering, data and AI capability

Technology plays a critical role in anticipating and solving unmet customer needs. For more than a decade, we have been driving personalisation and improving customer experiences and processes.

Becoming an AI-first bank

Since 2016 our Customer Engagement Engine has transformed the way we engage with customers. With over 1,000 machine learning models and using 157 billion data points, it helps serve our customers with next best conversations and service across all channels – including the CommBank app. Our partnership with H2O.ai has further accelerated how we design, build, test, deploy and govern AI models across the Bank. It provides CBA with access to exceptional world-leading talent and is helping us empower those who are serving customers every day with better tools and capability.

We want to ensure every team across the bank has AI capability embedded, to help deliver more personalised experiences for our customers. By embedding AI across CBA, our employees will benefit from a reduced administrative burden and our customers will benefit from the enhanced personalisation it delivers. We are creating a world-class engineering environment with improved tools, education and innovation opportunities. Training has been provided to more than 300 employees to make sure we are safely and securely deploying AI across the organisation.

This year we hired over 1,400 engineers and 219 technology graduates. We also have Technology Hubs in Melbourne, Brisbane, Adelaide and Perth to help attract domestic talent.

Over the last year, we have leveraged our AI capabilities to enhance scams and fraud detection and prevention – improving our detection of card-not-present fraud by 35%, which we anticipate will prevent an additional $10 million of fraud losses for our customers every year.

Modernising our systems and digitising end-to-end

CBA’s technology capabilities facilitate the effective delivery of our strategy by driving velocity, availability, efficiency and security. We are continuously improving how we work to deliver improved products and services better and faster, while being supported by modern technology and infrastructure.

As part of our technology simplification and to keep up with the pace of change, we continue to upgrade, replace and modernise legacy platforms. Ongoing automation of our Application Programming Interfaces also drives efficiencies and strengthens our security environment.

Above all else, the security of our systems and data is integral to delivering on our promises. System resilience is central to retaining our customer’s trust and we continue to focus on ensuring our systems operate securely and seamlessly.

Using AI responsibly

Our focus has always been on making sure we safely and responsibly scale the use of AI across CBA. In 2019 we were one of a small number of organisations that partnered with the Australian Government to help draft the Australian AI Ethics Principles, which informed our own AI policies and frameworks.

Our AI policy builds on CBA’s “Should We?” test and introduces six AI principles: Human, social & environmental wellbeing; Fairness; Transparency; Privacy & security; Reliability & safety; and Accountability. We spend considerable time with regulators to test how we identify, assess and manage risk – AI being one of these risk types. Importantly, where we implement AI, the Bank needs to assess that the model or the automated process is significantly better than the model or the task it replaces.

We see opportunity for AI and machine learning to help us do better. Making sure we are safely and responsibly deploying AI across the organisation every day, is central to our technology strategy.
Simpler, better foundations

Keeping the Bank strong and safe, and making it easier for our people to get things done.

We manage the organisation conservatively to ensure that we are well prepared for a wide range of economic scenarios to support the Australian and New Zealand economy, and our customers and communities.

Our prudent approach to managing credit, interest rate, funding and liquidity risks — and our continued balance sheet strength and capital position — creates flexibility to provide support and manage potential economic headwinds. We remain focused on maintaining capital and pricing discipline, while looking to reduce costs where possible and optimise growth, reinvestment and returns.

Our efforts have been centred on uplifting our risk management capability to ensure we are delivering the right customer experience and always asking ‘Should We?’. To deliver an even better end-to-end customer experience, we are focused on simplifying our processes and safeguarding our digital systems.

Driving operational excellence

Building trust requires that we put our customers’ interests first, are easy to deal with and provide relevant and secure services.

Our customers’ expectations are constantly evolving. Operational excellence is key to serving our customers well every day, and meeting their needs now and into the future. It requires ongoing focus to not only get the basics right, but to ensure we deliver a seamless experience end-to-end, by identifying and fixing complex or time-consuming processes related to our services or operations. Fixes may include reducing rework rates, improving time-to-decisions or challenging existing policies to simplify our processes.

We know customers are impacted by downtime or security threats, both of which negatively impact their experience. The resilience and availability of our systems – as well as the ability to recover from any incident rapidly – is vital. While we continue to enhance our resilience strategy, we also need to sustain change and remain relevant for our customers.

Simplification is centred on streamlining, standardising and digitising our most important processes. It incorporates a wide range of activities, including product rationalisation, policy simplification, end-to-end technology simplification and process design excellence. These activities remove complexity that makes it difficult for customers and our people to get things done. For example, we enhanced our Know Your Customer (KYC) process, to enable better digital fulfilment and remove the need to visit a branch or receive outbound calls.

Sustaining leading risk management

Transparent and leading risk management is about understanding different perspectives and using appropriate judgement to mitigate risk and deliver better outcomes for shareholders and customers. Through the completion of our program of work arising from the 2018 Australian Prudential Regulation Authority (APRA) Prudential Inquiry into CBA, we have made significant progress in improving and sustaining our governance, accountability and risk culture frameworks and practices. In recognition of this progress, the remaining operational risk capital overlay of $500 million was released by APRA in September 2022. We are focused on sustaining this progress and continuously improving on and strengthening the changes made.

CBA’s Risk Management Approach sets out the Board and Executive Leadership Team’s expectations regarding how we identify, measure, monitor and respond to our risks. Our risk behaviours in particular require us to support constructive debate and challenge of our risks and controls, adhere to the Code of Conduct, including asking ‘Should We?’, and share our learnings so that we can deliver better customer outcomes. The Board Risk Culture Assessment allows the Board to form a view of the Group’s risk culture and identify desirable changes that will instil an appropriate risk culture.

Committing to cyber security

Safeguarding our customers’ personal information through strong cyber security has never been more important.

Australians, many of them CBA customers, are concerned about the safety of their personal details following the recent cyber attacks on large organisations. We have an obligation to keep customer and sensitive information secure and protected. We continue to educate our customers about cyber risks and are dedicated to keeping our systems safe, sound and secure.

Cyber security is changing and involves working collaboratively and innovatively to prepare for potential attacks and combat them when they arise. To keep up with the advancement of cyber threats, we consult global experts, run regular internal exercises and participate in industry-wide exercises, coordinating with a number of government and regulatory stakeholders. We also recently provided a comprehensive response to the Federal Government’s 2023–2030 Cyber Security Strategy discussion paper to help Australia’s national cyber response.

During the year, we have taken several actions to further improve our cyber security capability and ability to manage cyber security-related risks. This includes expanding our capabilities to defend against malware and assess the security of our system configurations, strengthening our cyber security capability and ability to manage cyber security-related risks. This includes providing a comprehensive response to the Federal Government’s 2023–2030 Cyber Security Strategy discussion paper to help Australia’s national cyber response.

Our approach to ESG

Our position and scale means we have a key role to play in creating a brighter future for all. We continue to embed sustainability into our strategy and risk management practices, and we are evolving our policies, systems and processes around our sustainability commitments and priorities. This year we reviewed our Environmental and Social (E&S) Framework to update our position and commitments relating to financing of certain sectors after engaging with stakeholders.

We also performed an environmental, social and governance (ESG) materiality assessment to identify stakeholder priorities for us to consider in how we conduct business. The results of this assessment will support focused decision making and allow us to deliver on our purpose of building a brighter future for all our stakeholders. It also enables us to better understand how we can align with and positively deliver on the UN Sustainability Development Goals (SDGs).

Our materiality assessment enables us to engage with stakeholders and identify topics with the potential to most impact the Australian people, community and environment. It also helps us better understand the Bank’s ability to influence these impacts – directly or indirectly. Our process draws on external frameworks and resources, such as the Global Reporting Initiative, Sustainability Accounting Standards Board, and the International Integrated Reporting Framework.

The material themes identified this year are aligned to the themes we reported in 2022. In 2023, key changes in topics included the rising cost of living pressures; increases in cybercrime, scams and fraud; and the ongoing need to provide excellent customer experiences.

Our materiality assessment follows a multi-step process – including issue identification through desk research and interviews, stakeholder identification, and topic validation and prioritisation. This year’s information sources included engagement with key internal and external stakeholders, as well as consideration of political and regulatory developments and global research reports.

Our material themes are mapped to the material risks on pages 46–49.

Identifying our material themes

Our materiality process

Identifying ESG topics
- Creating a topic list by reviewing key stakeholder sources.
- Identifying key stakeholders for engagement.
- Understanding which topics matter most through qualitative interviews with internal and external stakeholders.
- Analysing and shortlisting topics, using frequency of mention in identification of topics.

Analysing, validating and prioritising topics
- Validating and prioritising shortlisted topics with guidance from internal subject matter experts.
- Rating topics with consideration of their potential to impact on the Australian people, community and environment; and whether CBA could influence the impact, positively or negatively.

Disclosure and review
- Grouping similar topics into material themes and sharing findings with internal teams. The material themes guide reporting and decision making, ensuring that we address the stakeholder topics that matter most.
- The materiality process will continue to evolve over time as we gain a better understanding of our stakeholders.

Our material themes are mapped to the material risks on pages 46–49.

Engaging with stakeholders

We recognise the importance of building trusted relationships with stakeholders to achieve our purpose. Our diverse stakeholder groups provide valuable insight through their different perspectives. CBA’s stakeholder engagement approach ensures our engagement is conducted responsibly when we interact with customers, communities, government, political parties, industry associations, regulators, investors and suppliers.

We engage with our customers and the community through feedback channels, surveys and workshops, customer representative bodies, and community visits and programs. This year we sought customer feedback on the development of the refreshed CommBank app, which helped inform a number of improvements and new features – including the ability to trade shares directly through the app. We also used feedback to identify and fix customer service issues.

Our dedicated Customer and Community Advocacy team represents the voice of the customer and community at the Bank, helping us find and fix negative impacts and improve our products and services. We engage with them through our Community Council and regular community visits.

CBA’s government, regulatory, procurement and investor relations teams proactively engage with their stakeholders to build constructive relationships and understand their issues and expectations.

We continue to explore ways to improve how we share stakeholder insights across the Bank and demonstrate how this process informs our strategy and actions. This year, detailed materiality assessment findings were shared with internal teams for consideration.
Our climate strategy

Last year, we released our inaugural Climate Report reaffirming our support for Australia’s transition to net zero emissions by 2050. We also outlined our transition roadmap for progressively setting sector-level targets on our financed emissions. This year, we have made progress against our transition roadmap, including setting new sector-level targets for Australian housing and heavy industry, using scenarios which are aligned to limiting global warming to 1.5°C.

Strategy

We aim to support Australia’s climate change goals and help finance a secure, affordable energy transition. This includes lending to sectors and businesses that will be integral to Australia’s energy transition. To help direct our lending and financing activities, we apply our E&S Framework, set sector-level financed emissions targets and strategies aligned to 1.5°C scenarios, and have a Sustainability Funding Target (SFT). We want to help our customers navigate to a net zero economy by 2050 and build resilience. We aim to do this by developing new products and services, and partnering with others.

Governance

Providing effective governance of environmental issues enables the Board to monitor the Bank’s management of climate-related risks and opportunities for our stakeholders. The Board is responsible for the strategic consideration of the E&S impact of the Bank’s activities, and holds the CEO and Executive Leadership Team (ELT) accountable for the delivery of E&S responsibilities. During the year, we updated our E&S Framework and refined our approach to assessing certain Clients’ Transition Plans. In March, we established a new transaction-level committee in our Institutional Bank which reviews certain transactions in fossil fuel sectors.

Risk

Climate-related risks can have different impacts on our customers, people, communities and the Bank. Our risk management approach seeks to ensure we understand and address the risks to our operations and strategy. We have a range of tools and processes to help us do this, and will continue to monitor and manage these risks as they evolve. This year, we finalised the stranded asset Risk Appetite Statement and strategy. We have a range of tools and processes to help us do this, and will continue to monitor and manage these risks as they evolve. This year, we finalised the stranded asset Risk Appetite Statement and strategy. We have a range of tools and processes to help us do this, and will continue to monitor and manage these risks as they evolve.

Metrics and targets

We set targets and track progress related to our climate strategy. We measure and report our financed emissions, aligned to the Partnership for Carbon Accounting Financials Standard. Our SFT of $70 billion in cumulative funding by 2030 helps us as we seek to support sustainable industries and asset types. As at 30 June 2023, we provided $44.7 billion in cumulative funding towards our target.

Understanding natural capital

We recognise the importance of taking action to maintain, enhance and restore biodiversity. This year, we used the ENCORE platform to deepen our understanding of potential nature-related impacts and dependencies in our business and corporate lending portfolio. Agriculture and mining are our priority natural capital sectors due to their high dependency and impact on natural resources.

Our own operations

We aim to reduce our operational emissions to address the environmental impacts of our operations.

We have made significant progress to reduce the impacts of our operational footprint with a 95% reduction in our Scope 3 and 2 emissions compared to 2014. We also purchased the equivalent of 100% renewable electricity for our Group-wide operations in 2022. This year the increase in our Scope 3 emissions is primarily attributable to increased emissions from business travel, as operating conditions normalised post-COVID-19; and the inclusion of new Scope 3 emissions categories, such as employees commuting to work.

We aim to incorporate leading sustainable design principles across energy, water, indoor air quality and waste in our office refurbishments. For example, to reduce our impact we used recycled water and limited chemical usage at our main Sydney corporate offices.
Engaging our people and evolving our culture

Engaged and energised employees, aligned with our values, provide superior customer experiences and help us deliver on our purpose and strategy.

Our culture ambitions

We remain focused on instilling a strong culture and encouraging the right mindsets and behaviours.

Our Organisational Culture Plan harnesses programs of work to drive culture change, including risk culture, at all three levels. These include making it easier for our people to deliver the highest impact work for our customers, by supporting all teams to understand the impact of their work on our customers’ experience; helping people strive for simpler, better solutions by continually adapting and learning; and embedding a new way to lead.

Our Leadership Principles are a key element of our culture plan, describing both what to prioritise and what is required to lead successfully at CBA. Embedded throughout the organisation, the principles are intentionally aspirational and aimed at provoking fundamental shifts to mindsets and behaviours.

Key phases of our approach to organisational culture development

Phase 1: Design and implement
Embraced the APRA Prudential Inquiry Report’s cultural recommendations and developed an action plan to build a better bank.

Phase 2: Define and embed
Embedded and sustained the outcomes of our action plan, while accelerating culture change.

Phase 3 (we are here): Evolve and mature
Continue to mature, assess and evolve our culture to ensure we keep pace with CBA’s changing internal and external context.
Assessing our culture

Our aspirational culture is adaptive to align with CBA’s changing internal and external context. The Board plays a critical role in setting the cultural tone of the Bank and it guides culture through the CED and ELT. Culture change initiatives are continually monitored using insights from employee surveys, strategic metrics and focus groups, as well as audit and whistleblower reports. Our culture assessments include the Organisational Culture Assessment, Board Risk Culture Assessment, targeted risk culture reviews and business unit self-reflections. This enables a cyclical process of assessment, action planning, implementation and re-assessment to support a customer-focused culture that delivers on our strategy and purpose.

Evolving our culture to deliver on our purpose and strategy

CBA’s culture is built on the foundation of our refreshed Code of Conduct, which includes our values and “Should We?” test. Our Leadership Principles assist in embedding our aspirational culture. We seek to build and strengthen mindsets, behaviours, processes and practices that put our customers at the centre.

Our Leadership Principles

CBA’s Leadership Principles are designed to help leaders understand what is required to lead successfully at the Bank.

Our people’s experience

We look to deepen our understanding of our people’s engagement, wellbeing and energy at work to enable them to deliver the greatest impact for our customers, communities and shareholdes.

Employee engagement remains strong at 89% from our most recent Your Voice survey. The results support a continued focus on CBA’s values and purpose; diversity, equity and inclusion; and flexible working options as drivers of engagement and our people’s experience.

Important factors in delivering CBA’s strategic priorities included stopping least impactful work, supporting our people’s wellbeing at work, and providing new skill opportunities. These factors have been shared across the Bank to ensure ongoing improvement.

We encourage employees to have regular, motivating and development-focused conversations with their leaders. Check-in conversations occur quarterly to regularly reflect on performance, reset goals, and establish meaningful development opportunities for the next quarter.

Helping through challenging times

With the rising cost of living, we are committed to looking after the financial wellbeing of our people.

CBA’s Wellbeing Hub contains resources to help employees better manage their finances, such as our workbook – Financial Wellbeing for Our People. The workbook provides simple steps and tools to help build confidence in managing money. Monthly webinars cover topics such as budgeting, saving, using employee benefits, controlling debt, and estate planning.

We provide several employee benefits which can help reduce expenses. For example, staff deals offering discounts on retail products and services; pay advance options for employees struggling to meet everyday expenses; and other savings and benefits. Our Financial Assistance Solutions team can help tailor personalised solutions for our customers and employees. Our Employee Assistance Program also has financial coaches to help those experiencing or anticipating financial difficulty.

Prioritising mental health and wellness

We are committed to creating a positive and supportive workplace which helps our people be their best. This includes creating a mentally healthy workplace where our culture is supportive for those experiencing mental ill-health and provides our people opportunities to thrive.

We provide employees with tools and resources to support their physical and mental wellbeing. This includes health, nutrition and fitness sessions, money management tools, mental health guides and access to professional support. We also run an annual Wellness Awareness Week to encourage positive habits.

To better understand and support the mental health and wellbeing of CBA’s workforce, we conducted our first Leading Mentally Healthy Workplaces Survey, led by the Corporate Mental Health Alliance Australia. The insights from this survey will be used to inform employee programs and offerings.

We continue to improve our health and safety systems to better identify and manage psychosocial risk, work-related factors that can impact the psychological health and safety of employees, including how work is designed, organised and managed.
Embedding diversity, equity and inclusion

We want everyone to feel respected, safe and included at work. It is an important part of how we live our values and support each other to be our best.

With a strategic focus on diversity, equity and inclusion, we are working towards ensuring that employees who are at risk of exclusion feel safe and are able to access the support they need, when they need it. Harmful behaviours are prevented and addressed at work and everyone feels valued and has opportunities to grow.

We continue to embed Respect Lives Here, our key initiative to strengthen respect and prevent harmful behaviours at work, by educating our people on the impact of these behaviours and how to be an active bystander. Quarterly Inclusion Conversations encourage senior leaders to reflect on equitable decision-making and help our people to succeed. In addition, our six employee-led networks play a vital role in creating an inclusive culture, by elevating the voices of our people to ensure their experience at work is heard.

As one of the first organisations to be certified as a Family Friendly Workplace, we are proud to be recognised for the depth and breadth of support options we provide for families and carers. This includes a diversity of leave options, such as Sorry Business leave, workplace support for domestic and family violence, resources for LGBTI+ families, aged caring support, wellbeing guides for new and single parents, and guides to assist with navigating miscarriage, stillbirth and infant loss.

Our diversity goals and impact

We continue to make progress on our diversity goals. We aim for 47–50% gender equality in Executive Manager and above roles, and for our senior leaders to match the cultural diversity of the Australian population by 2025. We also target 3% Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander representation in our domestic workforce, to reflect parity with the Australian population.

We are proud to be included in the global 2023 Bloomberg Gender-Equality Index (GEI), which recognises our commitment to transparency in gender reporting. The GEI is our primary gender equality benchmarking source to measure our performance against global best practice in five areas: leadership and talent pipeline, equal pay and gender pay parity, inclusive culture, anti-sexual harassment policies, and external brand.

Affirming our ways of working

We know how important it is for our people to maintain flexibility in where and how they work. This must also be balanced with the important role the workplace plays in facilitating connection, innovation, learning, wellbeing and career development.

To support our people to deliver and achieve the right balance of connection, learning and flexibility, we have a Group-wide approach to provide consistency and clarity for all our people who work in our corporate offices. Employees are expected to be in the office for 50% of their work time.

We’re operating in different sectors requiring a wide variety of skills and abilities and therefore are able to offer different careers which you would not normally associate with a bank.”

Group Executive, Human Resources

Building a skilled workforce

Our focus is to maximise the development of capability across the organisation through a culture where people want to continually learn and develop.

Our approach to upskilling and reskilling focuses on the technical, behavioural and leadership skills required to deliver on our strategy and ensure our people are ready for the future of work.

We believe that the way people learn has changed, so we continue to evolve how we grow and build new skills through a variety of digital, face-to-face, on the job and peer-to-peer learning modalities. In addition to upskilling initiatives that build breadth and depth of skills within roles, reskilling has continued to be a focus this year – allowing our people to find new, sustainable career paths and evolve skills in our existing workforce.

These programs include recognised certification and building internal talent pipelines, largely within high demand areas such as data and analytics. Since inception, over half of those who have attended a program have successfully secured a new role.

Expanding our technology graduate program

We are significantly expanding our technology graduate intake and have hired 219 new technology graduates in 2023 – more than 280% higher compared to our 2020 intake. 39% of these graduates are based in our technology hubs outside of Sydney. The program is designed to build the technical capability and core career skills for the future, with a focus on three key technology pathways: cyber security, data science and engineering.

To support our people to deliver and achieve the right balance of connection, learning and flexibility, we have a Group-wide approach to provide consistency and clarity for all our people who work in our corporate offices. Employees are expected to be in the office for 50% of their work time.

You x CommBank

As part of our new talent attraction campaign, You x CommBank, we are inviting successful candidates to become our partners. A career with us means being more than just an employee. We are committed to providing opportunities for our people to grow professionally and develop their skills.

Supporting our customers

We prioritise serving our customers and are dedicated to improving their experience with us.

Helping customers when they need it

We understand that our customers are impacted by rising costs and interest rates. We are committed to supporting those customers that need assistance and providing a series of tools, tips and guidance to help with managing finances.

Lessons learned from the financial impacts of COVID-19 have helped us better understand our customers, and segment and tailor our approach for different needs. This helps us identify changes that may signal financial distress, and assess how to best engage and support them. We have a number of solutions to assist customers experiencing financial difficulty, including interest rate concessions on home and personal loans, interest only payments, loan term extensions and loan combination service options to support customers through difficult times.

In addition to ensuring our people understand vulnerability and how it may impact our customers, and how we can all help minimise the harm our customers may experience. Our specialised Next Chapter [available to individuals experiencing domestic and family violence and financial abuse] and Extra Care teams are trained to provide additional empathetic support, resources and referrals to both internal and external experts for customers.

We are taking steps to ensure our people provide customers’ savings behaviour. data insights to better understand and support our customers. We are also using behavioural and insights to better understand and support our customers’ savings behaviour.

We are committed to supporting those impacted by rising costs and interest rates. We understand that our customers are sensitive circumstances. We are taking steps to ensure our people provide empathetic support, resources and referrals to both internal and external experts for customers.

Making banking accessible for all Australians

We continue our ambition to improve accessibility, helping to remove barriers for customers with temporary, situational or permanent disabilities. CBA’s Accessibility and Inclusion Plan guides how we are making our products, technology and workplaces accessible for all.

This year, we launched Equal Access Toolkits into all branches to make it easier for our customers with different accessibility requirements to bank with us. Each toolkit includes items to support an array of accessibility requirements when customers visit us and help them complete tasks. These include communication cards, high contrast keyboards and pens, headphones, and magnifying tools. We also provided guidance and training for branch and specialist centre employees to respectfully offer these options to those who may need them.

Commitment to inclusive banking

The impacts of financial exclusion can be varied and significant for customers. As Australia’s largest bank, we look to support financial inclusion and deliver a positive impact.

The Indigenous Customer Support Program, established in 2021, continued to bring efforts underway across the Bank together to support First Nations customers. This year we completed community visits to APY Lands (SA), Mornington Island, Palm Island (QLD), Djarindjin, Andylabon, Beagle Bay, and Bidyadanga (WA) to deliver remote banking support. These visits will inform our future remote banking support.

We partnered with First Nations Foundation in 2022 to run a financial literacy program pilot called My Money Dream. The program was available across a selection of remote branches for First Nations customers, to support positive money habits and build financial prosperity.

We understand the importance of building strong financial awareness and habits in children, to help them become financially resilient in the digital economy. Our earning-and-learning app, Kit, is being used by thousands of families in Australia. The app and prepaid card are designed with kids in mind, while still providing oversight for parents and carers. A recent Money Matters Report found families using Kit were more likely to save money, earn money on their own and apply positive spending strategies when purchasing an item.

We have chosen to play a role in addressing the significant impacts of financial abuse and improving outcomes for victim-survivors. Our Next Chapter program continues to provide ongoing and tailored support to customers and communities impacted by financial abuse.

For acute and sensitive cases, senior stakeholders across the Bank collaborate to create personalised solutions for our customers in highly vulnerable or sensitive circumstances.
Priorising our customers

Our customers’ expectations of our products and services are higher than ever, and their view of a great customer experience is increasingly being defined by experiences with other companies and industries.

We continually seek customer feedback to help us improve customer experiences, and identify and respond to their unmet needs. Our Net Promoter Score (NPS) is key to how we measure and understand what our customers expect of us. Listening to and improving the customer experience has delivered positive movements in NPS across all of our business activities. We are currently ranked #1 across major banks in all business units, and have held this ranking for seven months. However, we recognise that we still have more to learn from and improve for customers.

Creating better end-to-end customer experiences

In order to deliver better customer outcomes, we need to understand their full experience when interacting with us. We focus on identifying and fixing areas which are contributing to poor customer experiences, particularly related to our service, process or operations. These are identified by listening to the voice of the customer through complaints, employee feedback and NPS, and are grounded in data to help track the impact of our continuous improvement. We have seen positive impacts from many of the actions we have already taken to fix complex or problematic areas.

For customers experiencing difficulty, we removed barriers in the hardship application process to help them access solutions quickly when they need it most. Customers can now apply for hardship assistance through the CommBank mobile app or by phone, and we have reduced the complexity and requirements to provide excess proof and budgeting documents for simple requests. This change has resulted in an increase of customers in hardship undertaking responsible payment arrangements, with better long-term outcomes, and a decrease in hardship complaints.

Educating our customers on scams and fraud

With $3.1 billion stolen from Australians due to scams in 2022, as reported by the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission, the threat of cybercrime continues to increase. We recognise the critical role we have to play in supporting and protecting customers, as well as leading the national conversation across the industry.

We have a range of technologies to keep customer information secure, but are equally focused on helping customers learn how to protect themselves. The security check-up in the CommBank app walks customers through key steps to keep accounts and cards secure, from activating location-based security and setting up alerts, to applying card blocks and limits. Customers can also check and protect their credit score in-app with SavvyShield from Credit Savvy.

In 2022, the cost of scams in Australia totalled $3.1 billion

Building business defence against cybercrime

According to the Australian Cyber Security Centre’s (ACSC) Annual Cyber Threat report, the average cost of cybercrime to Australian businesses has risen by 14% from financial year 2021 to 2022. On average, there is a cyber attack every 7 minutes in Australia, with 43% of these attacks targeting small-to-medium enterprises.

In response, we created an online business security hub to give specialised advice to businesses – empowering them to keep themselves and their customers safe and secure. We are also forming partnerships to help build small businesses’ defence against cybercrime, scams and fraud. Our Small Business Cyber Security Guide, created with the ACSC, provides guidance on understanding and combating the latest cyber security threats. Together with Telstra, we partnered with the Council of Small Organisations of Australia (COSBOA) to support small businesses in completing the COSBOA Cyber Wardens pilot program. The program is based on the ACSC’s Essential Eight model, equipping Australian small businesses with the tools to safely engage with an increasingly digital world.

Empowering our customers through learning

Education is key to minimising the number of successful scam attempts. We provide a series of awareness videos, webinars, guides and research online and in-app to help our customers identify the signs of and protect themselves from a scam.

Understanding how scams work

Our podcast series, Anatomy of a Scam, uses real stories to expose how scammers target people – with advice from cyber security and law enforcement experts.
Strengthening our communities

We are committed to supporting our communities, and seek to contribute in ways that produce positive outcomes for society.

Providing support in times of need

Natural disasters have continued to severely affect our customers and communities. Throughout the year, we provided Emergency Assistance during weather-related events in many parts of Australia and New Zealand.

Using the power of our Customer Engagement Engine we are able to proactively connect with those who may be impacted by a natural disaster, with offers of support that align to their needs, such as deferring a loan or providing an emergency overdraft. In New Zealand, ASB provided disaster relief to customers and communities following major flooding in Auckland. ASB also offered a one-off payment of NZ $2,000 for customers hardest hit by the impacts of Cyclone Gabrielle, and donated NZ $2 million to the New Zealand Red Cross. ASB further provided NZ $180 million in low-cost lending to support heavily impacted corporate, business and rural customers.

Through the CommBank Staff Foundation, our employees can participate in workplace giving, with the Bank making an additional annual $2 million donation. The Foundation’s annual Community Grants program awards 200 community organisations with a $10,000 donation. This year, the grants came after another turbulent year for community organisations, with many facing rising costs while still recovering from the pandemic. The grants program helps relieve these costs pressures from organisations nationwide working across key areas of the community including mental health, cancer research, the arts, Indigenous support and homelessness.

Ongoing support for domestic violence and financial abuse

We remain committed to helping victim-survivors of domestic violence and financial abuse by continuing our support for customers, employees and communities through CommBank Next Chapter.

Since inception of CommBank Next Chapter in 2020, the program has supported 52,277 interactions with people impacted by domestic and family violence and provided free confidential support and referrals to help rebuild financial independence. This includes 4,478 participants supported by the Financial Independence Hub, delivered in partnership with Good Shepherd. The Hub is delivering positive outcomes for participants including increased optimism for the future, steps towards financial recovery and independence, and increased financial resilience, no matter who they bank with.

We have aspirations to support over 10,000 people by the end of the 2024 financial year as they move towards long-term recovery and financial independence. We are focused on increasing the understanding of our employees of financial abuse and its impacts. This year we continued to educate our people on how to respond to and prevent financial abuse.

The Group Customer Advocate also conducted a review into coercive relationship debt, a highly sensitive form of financial abuse, which often goes unrecognised by customers until acute impacts are felt. The review produced a number of recommendations that are being implemented throughout the Bank. These include tailored hardship support, employee and customer education, and updates to our processes.

Importantly, we want to ensure customers feel safe when banking with us. CBA’s AI model enables us to proactively identify instances of technology-facilitated abuse, a targeted form of domestic and family violence. The AI model complements the Bank’s automatic block filter to stop transaction descriptions that include threatening, harassing or abusive language. The use of AI to help us address technology-facilitated abuse, demonstrates how we can use innovative technology to create a safer banking experience for all customers, especially for those in vulnerable circumstances. We are currently working to make our pre-trained model available to other financial institutions domestically and globally.

Empowering First Nations voices

CBA’s Elevate status from Reconciliation Australia recognises our leadership role in driving reconciliation, both within CBA and nationally. We released our 2023-2025 Elevate Reconciliation Action Plan (RAP), setting out an ambitious plan which focuses on improving access to our products and services, and helping remove barriers to employment, business and supplier opportunities.

We are committed to supporting self-determination and we believe it is critical that Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander voices inform our approaches and decisions. To assist us in achieving this, the Indigenous Leadership Team (ILT) was established in 2022. The ILT is an internal group made up of a diverse range of First Nations CBA employees across different roles and business units representing the Indigenous Employee Network. The ILT is underpinned by strong cultural concepts of leadership and has a responsibility to amplify the strengths of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander ways of knowing and being. They act as an internal collective voice on matters which impact Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander employees, customers, businesses and communities aligned to and beyond our RAP commitments.

As the nation continues discussion about Indigenous constitutional recognition, we maintain our long standing support of the Uluru Statement from the Heart, including the Indigenous Voice to Parliament. In reaching our position and approach, we have sought advice from the ILT and CBA’s Indigenous Advisory Council, and reflected on our positive experiences and improved outcomes as a result of listening to First Nations voices. We have also supported a number of organisations working towards Indigenous constitutional recognition, including Uphold & Recognise, Australians for Indigenous Constitutional Recognition and the Uluru Dialogues. We acknowledge and respect that our people and customers will have a variety of views about the Voice, and are focused on encouraging respectful conversations about what can be done to improve economic, social and health outcomes for First Nations people.

Supporting regional Australia’s growth

Our Regional Movers Index continues to show strong population movement to Australia’s regional areas in the past year – drawn by employment and business opportunities across a diverse range of sectors.

CBA has supported regional communities and businesses for over 100 years, by providing regional and agricultural businesses with specialist expertise. This year we were proud to partner with Newcastle Airport as sole financier for a $240 million package to support their expansion. The project will significantly increase the airport’s capacity, improve connectivity and support future growth and opportunity in the Hunter Region.

Promoting equality and inclusiveness in Australian sport

With women under-represented in organised sport in Australia, we aim to promote equality and inclusiveness for women’s sport, including football.

CBA is proud to be working with Football Australia, who aim to make football the first sport to reach gender parity in community participation. As an Official Supporter of the FIFA Women’s World Cup 2023™ and partner of the CommBank Matildas, we are committed to helping players of all ages and abilities participate in one of the country’s favourite sports.

Governance

We aim to conduct our business responsibly and uphold a high standard of governance to meet our obligations. This is essential in delivering on our strategic goals.

For more information on our E&S Framework and other policies, see commbank.com.au/policies

For further details on our approach to corporate governance, see pages 66–73 of the 2023 Annual Report.

Evolving our Code of Conduct

CBA’s Code of Conduct sets out expectations for how we act, solve problems and make decisions. It is regularly reviewed to ensure it remains current to our business needs, and is aligned with customer and community expectations.

This year, the Code was updated to clarify and reinforce our responsibilities in relation to the responsible use of customer information and data. The ‘Should We?’ test remains fundamental to our Code, helping us focus on the right outcomes when making difficult decisions.

Making it safe to speak up

We support our people and external partners to raise concerns when something does not feel right.

The Bank’s SpeakUP service is available 24/7 for our people and external partners who do not feel comfortable raising concerns through other channels, or want to remain anonymous. Individuals who raise concerns assessed as whistleblower disclosures receive support and protection under the Group Whistleblower Policy and applicable Australian whistleblower laws. During the 2023 financial year, 331 reports were made to the SpeakUP program, up from 317 in 2022. Of these reports, 81 were whistleblower cases. Learn more at commbank.com.au/policies

Building on our human rights commitments

With a continued focus on respecting human rights, we support the United Nations Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights. Addressing modern slavery risk remains a critical focus for the Bank. Our Annual Modern Slavery Statements outline the actions taken by the Bank to identify, assess and mitigate modern slavery and human trafficking risks in our operations and supply chain. In line with the annual reporting requirement under the Modern Slavery Act, we published our latest Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking Statement in December 2022.

We recognise the importance of engaging with external experts to support appropriate responses to human rights issues, and through our Social Impact Program we continue to engage formal advisory bodies, including our Modern Slavery Advisory Council and IAC.

Supported by the Bank’s IAC and ILT, we launched a Human Rights of First Nations Stakeholders Grievance Process Framework. The process seeks to provide an avenue for First Nations stakeholders to raise directly with us genuine concerns regarding possible human rights impacts connected with CBA’s business lending activity to Clients. Prior to the launch of the grievance process, we received and responded to one grievance relating to the resources sector. Learn more on page 51 in our 2023 Climate Report.
Safeguarding our information

We know the personal information we hold makes us an attractive target for cyber security attacks. The increase in cyber attacks on companies in Australia and abroad has increased our focus on cyber security resilience, minimising disruptions and improving the protection of customer and employee information.

Our policy frameworks

Cyber security

CBA’s Information Security Policy Framework comprises a suite of policies and procedures that outline how we manage cyber and information security risk; and includes clear and detailed cyber security policies and standards. We are committed to complying with all relevant regulatory obligations, and aligning to industry frameworks, best practice and standards. These include ISO/IEC 27001 Information Security Management Systems, ISO/IEC 27002 Code of Practice for Information Security Controls, APRA Prudential Standard CPS 234 Information Security, NIST Cyber Security Framework, and the ASCC’s Essential Eight mitigation strategies. CBA regularly reviews and uplifting internal policy documents and continuously develops a compliance framework. These are embedded in our behaviours and the way we conduct our business, maintaining a secure design of our systems and processes.

Data privacy

The Bank’s Privacy Statement sets out how we collect and handle personal information, and how individuals may exercise their privacy rights. The principles of good privacy compliance contained in the Privacy Act 1988 (Cth) are embedded in our internal Group Privacy Policy, Standard and Procedures and guide how we comply with privacy obligations and respond to privacy requests. Accordingly, we seek to be transparent about the types of personal information we collect, how we use it, and who we may share it with. Similarly, we aim to keep personal information protected and destroy or de-identify it once it is no longer needed. We also have processes in place to enable individuals to exercise their privacy rights as set out in the Privacy Act.

Testing, review and prevent

Cyber security

We maintain a range of internal and external mechanisms to assess our information security capability. Our internal audit teams periodically report to the Board, and Board Risk and Compliance Committee, on cyber security controls and capabilities.

CBA’s cyber security team is focused on maintaining our defences against the evolving threat environment, running regular simulations to improve the Bank’s response and recovery capability in case of significant events. When significant cyber security breaches occur at other organisations, we conduct internal assessments to test CBAs controls and processes against similar threats. These are increase and consequences magnify, our testing and review cycles are more frequent to ensure new vulnerabilities and risks are understood and managed by our controls.

In addition, we participate in external and regulatory body reviews and help us identify areas for improvement and benchmark ourselves against best-in-class and industry peers. Following APRA’s 2022 Technology Resilience Prudential Review, there were no adverse findings specific to cyber security for CBA. In the last year, we conducted two external reviews to assess CBAs cyber program against international best practice benchmarks, ensuring its alignment with global standards. We were also one of the nine pilot entities included in APRA’s first CPS 234 tripartite assessment, where our domestic and international operations were externally assessed in 2021 and 2022 respectively. These findings aligned with our self-identified areas for improvements, and we have closed all findings for CBA and ASB. PT Bank Commonwealth is progressing efforts to close out remaining findings.

Data privacy

We regularly review our data privacy processes and controls. CBA’s Information Security Identity and Access Management Standard outlines access requirements such as multi-factor authentication and segregation of duties so that only relevant roles are able to access systems and information. CBA has implemented software and controls to monitor email, USB and web traffic. This safeguard is known as Data Loss Prevention and plays an important role in keeping Bank and customer data secure.

Training, awareness and oversight

All employees at CBA undertake annual mandatory privacy training. The Bank also maintains an information security training and awareness program that involves participation from employees to reinforce the information security roles and responsibilities of our employees and contractors. This program includes online training, completed when joining the Bank, and thereafter on an annual basis. The mandatory training is based on regulatory guidance and best practices to ensure our people know how to prevent, detect and escalate cyber risks appropriately. Non-completion of mandatory training may result in disciplinary action, including termination. This training is further supported through information security awareness initiatives including simulated exercises and intranet articles and newsletters, which promote secure practices across key topics such as ‘ phishing ’ and ‘ spear phishing ’ attacks, password security, and secure information transfer and storage.

Designing products for better customer outcomes

Ensuring fair and equitable outcomes for customers is a key priority, and informs our responsible product design, marketing and communication approach. We also embed regular reviews of products, services and communications to understand where they may not deliver good outcomes for some customers, and where we can improve.

The Bank’s policies and procedures set out our commitment to providing information and marketing materials that are clear, accurate, and when targeted, relevant to the customer. We provide direct communication to customers in agreed timeframes and through their preferred communication methods. We will reasonably honour prices advertised and comply with all regulatory requirements. Any material that does not meet these standards, is incorrect or is expired, is revoked or rectified as soon as practicable.

We look to meet genuine customer needs or demands when developing and distributing products, as well as ensuring alignment with CBA’s business risk appetite and strategy. We are required by law to have Target Market Determinations which describe the particular cohort of customer the product is intended for – taking into account their circumstances, financial literacy, potential vulnerability or hardship and accessibility requirements. This helps reduce the risk of customer harm from the development and distribution of our products.

Position on political donations

The Bank’s political donations policy precludes us from making political donations. However, we pay to attend political events and forums. This year, we spent $62,100 with the Australian Labor Party, $62,000 with the Liberal Party of Australia, and $12,825 with the National Party of Australia. These payments are disclosed to the Australian Electoral Commission in line with State and Federal regulation.

Our approach to tax

CBA is one of the largest taxpayers in Australia. We recognise the important contribution taxes make to support government assets and services. Our approach to managing our tax affairs is in accordance with CBA’s values, purpose and strategy. Our commitment is to comply with prevailing tax laws in all jurisdictions that we operate in, and to maintain transparent and collaborative relationships with tax authorities.

Limited assurance report

PwC has provided limited assurance on these metrics for the year ended 30 June 2023, except for: fuel consumption breakdowns; FTE geographical breakdowns; women in Senior Leadership (Group Executives); total customers and Bankwest and ASB customer breakdowns; and Financial Independence Hub (participants supported) metrics. A more complete set of metrics is available for download at commonwealthbank.com.au/sustainabilityreporting. The PwC Limited Assurance Report is provided on pages 47–49 of the 2023 Annual Report.
Our results for the 2023 financial year reflect our continued focus on customers, disciplined operational and strategic execution, strengthened balance sheet and improved financial outcomes.

Common Equity Tier 1 (CET1) capital ratio

12.2%

APRA (Level 2)

780bps on FY22

The Group returned $10 billion to shareholders via dividends and buy-backs and remains in a strong capital position and well in excess of the minimum regulatory requirements. With the previously announced $3 billion on-market share buy-back completed during the year, the Group has announced an intention to conduct a further $1 billion on-market share buy-back.

The timing and actual number of shares purchased under the buy-back will depend on market conditions, available trading windows and other considerations. CBA reserves the right to vary, suspend or terminate the buy-back at any time.

Loan impairment and credit provisions

$1.108m

$1.465m on FY22

Provision coverage ratio

1.64%

Loan impairment expense increased reflecting ongoing inflationary pressures, rising interest rates and a decline in housing prices.

We have maintained a strong provision coverage ratio of 1.64% reflecting our cautious approach to managing risks as financial conditions continue to tighten.

Total shareholder return (TSR) (%)

860,000+ shareholders hold CBA shares directly, millions more hold CBA shares through their superannuation.

Dividends

The final dividend of $2.40 per share reflects the Bank’s strong capital position. Our aim is to deliver sector leading returns and a sustainable dividend. To deliver sustainable dividends we seek to:

• Pay cash dividends at sustainable levels;
• Target a full-year payout ratio of 70–80% of cash NPAT; and
• Maximise the use of our franking account by paying fully franked dividends.

The final dividend payout ratio was 74% of the Bank’s cash earnings for the full financial year. Including the interim dividend of $2.10 per share, the full year dividend was $4.50 per share, fully franked.

The Dividend Reinvestment Plan (DRP) continues to be offered to shareholders. No discount will be applied to shares allocated under the plan for the final dividend. The DRP is anticipated to be satisfied in full by an on-market purchase of shares.

Delivering for shareholders

We seek to deliver sustainable dividends for our shareholders. We know that many Australians rely on the dividends and related franking credits that they receive to support their income. By focusing on our operating performance and capital generation through different economic environments, we can achieve sustainable dividends over the long-term. We support the Australian economy by providing sustainable returns to our shareholders as well as indirectly to more than 12 million Australians through their superannuation.

Managing our risks

CBA’s embedded risk framework, together with a stronger culture, empowers our people to confidently manage risks and opportunities.

The Bank’s operating environment is complex and dynamic. This introduces new risks and opportunities, and affects our current risk priorities. The Group Risk Management Framework enables the Board, Executive Leadership Team (ELT) and our people to make informed risk decisions to support the delivery of our strategy.

Key considerations for risk management this year:

Macroeconomic pressures and rising cost of living

The Bank’s financial performance is closely linked to local and global economic performance. Economic growth in Australia and New Zealand is slowing as the impact of higher interest rates takes effect and consumer spending softens. Many customers are under financial strain due to higher loan repayments, rising costs of electricity, and other household expenses. In addition, the majority of fixed-rate home loans will transition to variable rates by the end of 2024, which will further impact some households and their ability to meet their financial commitments. The Bank seeks to carefully manage credit risk, while also providing support to households and businesses who are financially impacted by economic conditions.

Global banking instability

The recent bank failures in the United States and Europe highlighted the importance of maintaining bank stability for customer confidence. A global banking crisis could potentially reduce the availability of credit to banks globally and increase the cost of funding. The recent bank failures in the United States and Europe highlighted the importance of maintaining bank stability for customer confidence. A global banking crisis could potentially reduce the availability of credit to banks globally and increase the cost of funding.

Escalating scams, fraud and cybercrime

Australians lost a record $3.1 billion to scams in 2022, as reported by the ACCC. Scams are becoming more sophisticated, resulting in millions of people experiencing a range of financial and non-financial harms. Current geopolitical tensions also elevate cyber security concerns. Cyber attacks on Australian companies are increasing in frequency and scale as cyber criminals use more advanced techniques. The Bank provides educational tools and resources to help customers stay safe, and continues to invest in the latest technological capabilities. We are focused on initiatives to detect, prevent and recover losses from scams and fraud on our customers.

Environmental expectations

Regulatory and societal pressures continue for organisations to develop robust strategies and to accelerate progress associated with the transition to net zero. We have a role to play in lending to support the transition, and helping our customers to transition and build resilience through our products and services. Our approach to climate change is detailed in our 2023 Climate Report.

Competition intensity

Competition continues to intensify from both existing and new competitors, including non-traditional competitors. Digital disruption in payments and banking service offerings, as well as increasing customer expectations for integrated and personalised digital experiences, require us to continue innovating to deliver superior customer experiences.

Capability and culture

The progression of new technologies such as AI, changing customer expectations and rapidly evolving risks such as cybercrime, requires leaders, employees and partners to have new and different skill sets, particularly in engineering, technology, environmental, data and analytics. In recent years, we have transformed our culture to take measured risks we understand and can manage, ask “Should We?” when making decisions, and encourage challenge of the status quo to ensure that we prioritise positive outcomes for our customers.

Our risk management process

Our Risk Management Framework (RMF) outlines the Bank’s key risk processes. The Board approved Risk Appetite Statement (RAS) sets the risk limits the Bank operates within to deliver our strategy. The RMF includes a number of risk types (Strategic, Financial and Non-financial), each with their own specific frameworks to identify, assess, govern and manage their unique risks. Our material risks are those the Bank is placing extra focus on mitigating, due to their potential to materially impact the Bank, our customers, shareholders and the community, now or in the future.

For more detailed information on the Group RMF and risk types, see pages 204–245 of the 2023 Annual Report.

Risk types

- Strategic
  - The risk of value destruction or less than planned value creation, due to changes in the internal or external operating environment.

- Financial
  - Risks typically arising from financial transactions – credit, market and liquidity risks.

- Non-financial
  - Risks arising from inadequate or failed internal processes, people or systems, including failure to act in accordance with laws and regulations.

For more detailed information on material risks see pages 46–49.
Material risks

The Board and management are placing extra focus on mitigating a number of our material strategic, financial and non-financial risk types, due to their potential to have a material impact to the Bank, our customers, shareholders and the community, now or in the future.

Risk description

Financial risk

- Risk type: Financial
- Material themes: Customer support and experience

Macroeconomic pressures and the rising cost of living negatively impact financial risk. The expected slowdown in economic growth could lead to market volatility, increased unemployment and an increase in the number of borrowers unable to meet their financial commitments with the Bank.

- Key actions:
  - We ensure that the Bank’s balance sheet settings remain conservative, with a high proportion of funding from deposits and excess liquidity. We perform stress tests to ensure we are well prepared for a range of economic scenarios.
  - Credit settings and pricing are routinely assessed in light of changing risks. Our loan loss provisions are carefully managed to ensure that these provisions are appropriate.
  - Learn more on how we are supporting customers on pages 30–33.
  - Learn more about our financial risk management on pages 204–245 of the 2023 Annual Report.

Cyber security

- Risk type: Non-financial
- Material themes: Cyber security and data privacy

Cyber attacks are expected to escalate due to more well-organised and resourced cyber criminals. A cyber attack on the Bank could significantly disrupt customer banking services, compromise customer data privacy, and destabilise financial systems.

- Key actions:
  - We invest in the latest technology and capabilities to defend our systems against cyber attacks.
  - We are strengthening system-level resilience through collaboration with industry bodies and the Government’s newly established Office of the National Cyber Director.
  - By running regular simulations, we can improve the Bank’s response and recovery capability during crisis events.
  - Learn more about our approach to cyber security on pages 17 and 39.

Scams and fraud

- Risk type: Non-financial
- Material themes: Customer support and experience

The acceleration of new technologies in recent years has allowed for more innovation and digitisation, but has also been leveraged by criminals to perpetrate increasingly sophisticated scams and fraud against customers.

- Key actions:
  - Initiatives across the Bank are focused on enhancing our ability to detect, prevent and recover losses from scams and fraud on CBA customers. Examples of key initiatives and features include CallerCheck, NameCheck, and our partnership with Telstra to help protect customers from phone scams.
  - Our CommBank Safe webpage provides education and awareness tools to help customers protect themselves from scams and fraud.
  - We have prevented and/or recovered over $200 million from scams and fraud.
  - Learn more about how we are helping customers protect themselves on page 33.

Environmental and social

- Risk type: Strategic
- Material themes: Climate transition

More frequent and severe weather events and longer-term shifts in climate patterns could result in the Bank’s assets, including those held as collateral, being impaired. Assets in certain industries could also lose value from not aligning with the transition to new technologies, regulations or consumer trends. Our reputation could also be impacted by inadequate environmental and social commitments, including financing or engaging with organisations with poor climate, nature, or social practices (such as those who engage in modern slavery).

- Key actions:
  - The Board and ELT oversee the strategic approach to addressing environmental & social (E&S) risks and opportunities. We continue to enhance tools and approaches to manage E&S risk exposures across our lending and supplier processes.
  - We are strengthening system-level resilience through collaboration with industry bodies and the Government’s newly established Office of the National Cyber Director.
  - By running regular simulations, we can improve the Bank’s response and recovery capability during crisis events.

Risk description

Capability and culture

- Risk type: Strategic
- Material themes: Engaged and supported workforce

We require people with the right skills and values to deliver exceptional customer experiences and effectively execute on our strategy. Competition for these skills remains high as they are sought after in various industries, locally and globally.

- Key actions:
  - A strategic workforce planning process informs our required capability needs and with our targeted development programs, we aim to build a workforce for the future. We also continue to leverage strategic partnerships, such as our partnership with H2O.ai, to boost our capabilities.
  - As part of our diversity, equity and inclusion strategy, we set goals to advance gender and cultural representation across leadership roles, and to achieve 3% First Nations representation in our domestic workforce, to reflect parity with the Australian population.
  - Initiatives are in place to further embed our culture of using good judgement and ensuring the voice of the customer remains strong.
  - Learn more about capability and culture on pages 25–29.

Privacy and data management

- Risk type: Non-financial
- Material themes: Cyber security and data privacy

We are conscious of the trust our customers place in us to collect, process, use, retain and dispose of their personal data in a manner consistent with our obligations. Quality data is critical in enabling us to support our customers’ needs and make business decisions.

- Key actions:
  - We anticipate that reforms following recent corporate cyber attacks will increase the expectations on our privacy and data management.
  - Through the Bank’s privacy risk management framework we continue to improve privacy processes and capability across the Bank to ensure compliance in all jurisdictions where we operate.
  - Through our data management program, we are simplifying, enhancing and embedding data management processes and tools across the Bank.
  - We have policies and standards to manage customer records and the safeguarding of customers’ personal information.
  - Learn more about our approach to data privacy on page 39.

Our approach to corporate governance

Introduction from the Chair

It was a privilege to have become Chair of CBA last August. My focus over the past year has been to build on the Bank’s strong foundations, helping steer the organisation through its next strategic phase.

As a key contributor to the Australian economy, CBA plays a meaningful role in the lives of its customers and in the country’s national interest. We are relied upon to support economic growth and to provide support to our customers and communities – particularly in the current environment.

Board and strategic priorities

Globally we are facing a period of economic uncertainty, with many Australians feeling the strain of cost of living pressures and rising interest rates. The role of the Board is to oversee management and test the appropriateness of the Bank’s strategic priorities over the long term. It is critical that the Board listens to a broad range of stakeholders to inform our decisions. This year the Board reviewed CBA’s new AI Policy with a focus on how to safely scale the use of AI.

There continues to be considerable interest from stakeholders on our climate-related progress and how we are managing the risks and opportunities as well as balancing competing factors. Our actions need to align with our purpose – building a brighter future for all – and support an inclusive transition.

The Board sets both the strategic objectives and risk appetite of the Bank. As part of our annual Risk Management Declaration to APRA, the Board performs a rigorous assessment of the maturity of each key risk type of the Bank and ensures the Risk Management Framework is appropriate for our external context, business plan and strategic priorities. We take this declaration seriously as it provides the Board with time to reflect on CBA’s framework assurances and make any required enquiries so that we are confident the Framework is effective and appropriate for the Group.

Importantly, in order to execute our strategy and deliver for both our customers and shareholders, we need to maintain disciplined capital allocation and balance sheet resilience. Managing the organisation conservatively ensures the Bank is prepared for a wide range of economic scenarios and market conditions. Our cautious approach to balance sheet settings allows an orderly execution of our funding plans in uncertain environments, while maintaining flexibility. Delivering stable earnings contributes to the strength of Australia’s banking system, helping to provide confidence and stability for businesses and consumers.

Governance and culture

The Board plays a critical role in setting the cultural tone of the Bank and is supportive of management’s focus on encouraging the right mindsets and behaviours. We are particularly focused on ensuring progress made under CBA’s Remedial Action Plan is sustained, while remaining adaptive to the Bank’s changing internal and external context.

CBA has a highly regarded management team that has delivered consistently strong operational performance, and significant cultural change. We also have a highly engaged and diverse workforce who we need to support and develop. We continue to monitor initiatives to further embed inclusion, equity and diversity across the organisation. The Board is focused on ensuring we continue to attract and retain our talent – both at the executive level and broader workforce – ensuring the depth of skills reflect what is needed to execute our strategy.

Equally, we are focused on ensuring our people remain accountable for their actions and outcomes – effectively rewarding positive outcomes and enforcing consequences for poor outcomes. As part of the Bank’s performance and risk review, each February and June, the People & Remuneration Committee members meet concurrently with the Risk & Compliance, Audit, and Nominations Committee members. These meetings provide an opportunity for the Committee members to assess executive performance against strategic priorities, risk management and living our values – and supports the determination of collective and individual remuneration consequences.

Board effectiveness

I am committed to ensuring the Board continues to operate effectively. It is important for directors to spend the right amount of time on the right issues. When setting the forward planners, we keep all strategically significant matters which could impact the Group’s strategy – such as digital transformation, environmental and social issues, and global competition – at the Board level. Committees continue to support the Board by undertaking work to facilitate sound decision making, which creates time for the Board to focus on long-term issues and constructively challenge management where appropriate.

I am also focused on ensuring that all Directors have significant experience across multiple areas of the Board Skills Matrix, and contribute to all elements of strategic and risk oversight. As we look forward, we will continue to ensure the Board has the best mix of skills and experiences to provide the long-term focus required on banking, technology and customer experience.

Closing

I would like to thank all who have contributed to the Bank’s success – including my fellow Directors for their commitment to ensuring the Bank is well positioned for the future, our people who work hard each day to deliver for our customers, our customers and communities for trusting us to serve their financial needs, and our shareholders for their ongoing support.
